First Holy Communion

Parish First Holy Communion will be on Sat 13th May 2023 for 29 children. We'll be welcoming them with their families next Sunday for the first Do This In Memory Mass.

NO Livestream Next Sunday

Do This In Memory always entails having small children appearing in public, hearing their names and seeing them performing. Due to the complications around child protection issues involved in broadcasting this kind of material the safest option is not to livestream any of the Do This In Memory Masses. The liturgy of those Sundays can be seen live or on playback via the Vigil Masses.

As we near the end of the Church's liturgical year, the readings become more eschatological — having to do with the end times. The main theme of today's readings is the reality of life after death and of the relationship between our lives on earth and the life of glory or punishment that will follow. The readings invite us to consider the true meaning of the Resurrection in our lives. The first reading states the first century BC Jewish theology of martyrdom and the resurrection of the just: the justice of God would reward the faithful in the afterlife and would also punish the wicked.

The second reading was meant to encourage the Thessalonians who were waiting for the Parousia (the second coming of Christ and the resurrection of the dead), to trust in the fidelity of God.

The same theme, the resurrection of the dead, is the basis of the confrontation described in today's Gospel passage. Today's Gospel affirms the victory of God and God's love over the power of death. Jesus speaks of God as the God of the living, Who promises that the ones who will rise to life in Heaven are God's children.
