Today's Scripture

In our first reading, we see, the welcome given to the prophet Elisha by an elderly, childless couple who lived in Shunem. The wife recognized the holiness of Elisha. She showed him reverence and hospitality by inviting him to dine with her and her husband and by arranging an upper room of their house so that Elisha might stay with them when he visited the area. In response, Elisha promised her, "This time next year you will be fondling a baby son." The promise was fulfilled by God. Today's Responsorial Psalm (Ps 89), reminds us that we are the children of God Who tells us, "My mercy [kindness] is established forever." The second reading explains why those who care for the followers of Jesus are caring for Jesus himself, and those who show hospitality to any one of them are eligible for a reward. Baptism makes us part of the Body of Christ and that is why the one who welcomes us welcomes Christ. In today's Gospel the first list of sayings of Jesus details the behavior expected of his disciples, and the second speaks of the behavior expected of others towards the disciples. Also, those who help the "little ones," (believers) and the poor, the sick, and the needy will be amply rewarded.
