"O Father who sought me
O Son who bought me
O Holy Spirit who taught me."

In the Trinity we become sons and daughters of God. Just like an eagle is made for soaring, you and I are made us for sonship. A son feels joy when he can admire his father and learn from him. C.S. Lewis said it this way: "We are not made for equality, but for obedience and worship." Jesus was so united with his Father that he always obeyed him. To our great sadness, you and I have not obeyed God. Still, if we join ourselves with Jesus - by the power of the Holy Spirit - we can become adopted sons and daughters.

Another formulation says, "The Father is almighty, the Son is almighty, the Holy Spirit is almighty, but there are not three almighties, but one Almighty." You get the idea. Everything we can say of the Father, we can also say of the Son and Holy Spirit - except for their relations to each other. Jesus is the Son precisely because of his relation to the Father. They are so closely related that Jesus can say, "Anyone who has seen me has seen the Father." (John 14:9)
