KILBRITTAIN CEMETERY MASS CANCELLED THIS YEAR

After some consideration, and following the example of other parishes, I am reluctantly cancelling the Kilbrittain Cemetery Mass for 2020. Practical difficulties in ensuring social distancing would be impossible to overcome, given the large crowds we have in the cemetery each year and the way traffic congestion forces people to squeeze together when walking to and from the cemetery. As well as that, we would have to do without choir and Eucharistic Ministers.

The Mass would have been on the 14th August, Vigil of the Assumption, as usual. This year that date falls on a Friday and it means that we have three days of Solemn Masses together that weekend: Vigils Fri 6.00 and 8.00; Holy Day Saturday 10.30; Vigils Sat 6.00 and 8.00; Sunday Eucharist 10.30. I intend to take advantage of this to compensate in some degree with special prayers for the souls at all six of these Masses.

I will be blessing the graves privately on the Friday and I suggest that people visit their graves and pray there before or after one of the six Masses that weekend.
